Saturday night fraternity brawl results in stabbing

by Linda Charnesky

One person was stabbed Saturday night after two fights broke out in the University Union Old Ballroom between members of the Phi Beta Sigma and Omega Psi Phi fraternities, Union Area Head Bill Clark said Monday.

The name has not yet been released of the stabbed victim and Clark said he was not sure if the victim was an Eastern student.

He also said he did not know what type of injuries the victim sustained.

John Pauley, chief of security, said he also did not know if the victim was an Eastern student or if anyone will be taken into custody for the stabbing.

However, Clark said "several" Eastern students were involved in the fights that broke out Friday and Saturday night in the Union Old Ballroom.

Clark said persons involved in the altercations were "current or past members of both fraternities."

Mike Collins, president of Omega Psi Phi, and Caleb Gilchrist, president of Phi Beta Sigma, were unavailable for comment Monday.

Clark explained the dispute between the two fraternities allegedly began Friday night when a member of the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity was interrupted during a routine of an organizational pledge dance.

"It is really unclear at this time what precipitated Friday night," Clark said.

"It appeared that Phi Beta Sigma was sponsoring a pledge dance," but details have not yet been cleared, he said.

Subsequently, altercations occurred Saturday night while money was being taken at the entrance of the Ballroom, which eventually led to the stabbing, Clark said.

Clark said there will definitely be action taken and there may be possible legal action.

Schedule change to add week

by Mike Dominick

Eastern students will have to attend classes an extra week in spring 1982 due to a readjustment in the semester scheduling, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin said Monday.

Marvin said the semester has to be readjusted every three or four years because of days lost due to holidays and breaks. He said if the trend continued, the semester would continue to shrink.

The decision to lengthen the semester was made by Marvin and the Council of Vice Presidents, he said.

The Council of Vice Presidents includes Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams, Vice President of Academic Affairs Stanley Rives, Vice President for Administration and Finance George Miller and Marvin.

Students now attend classes in the spring for 15 weeks, Samuel Taber, dean of student services, said. Taber said the term will last for 16 weeks next spring.

Students will attend 75 days next spring instead of the 72 days they have attended in the spring for the last four years.

Taber attributed the decision to lengthen the spring semester due to the scheduling of the Illinois State High School Association boys and girls state track meets held annually in early May at Eastern, Taber said.

He said the reason for the extension of the semester is because the meets will be held a week later than usual.

However, Marvin said although the scheduling of the track meets was a consideration "a few years ago" in shortening the semester, it did not have anything to do with the decision to lengthen next spring's term.

The track meets will be held this year on two weekends beginning May 15.

Val Averill, president of Residence Hall Association, said students will be assessed an additional $30 for the extra week.

Leonard Wood, chairman of the Faculty Senate, said he had not heard that the three days would be added to the schedule next spring.

Wood said he plans to bring the issue to the Senate's attention at its next meeting. He said he has no way of knowing if the Senate will like the idea of the extra days or not.

The Senate will make a statement about the issue after they have studied it thoroughly, Wood said.

AB funding for organizations to change

by Cathy Crist

Three organizations currently allocated funds by the Apportionment Board will instead receive funds from their academic departments beginning fiscal year 1981-82.

The proposal to make this transfer in allocations was worked out by an AB sub-committee and approved last week by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin.

The organizations that will be funded by their academic departments in fiscal year 1981-82 are forensics, the Vehicle—Eastern's literary magazine—and the Model United Nations.

Fiscal year 1981-82 begins July 1 and ends June 30.

AB Chairman Todd Daniels said the sub-committee decided these organizations were deemed as learning laboratories in the ad hoc report given to Marvin.

The report was presented to Marvin last month in response to Marvin's memo questioning the AB and its fiscal responsibilities.

Because the sub-committee decided some organizations were academic department's learning laboratories, the organizations should instead of receiving funding out of student activities fees have their funds allocated to them from their academic department.

Daniels said the plan is designed to separate academic organizations from the student activities fee budget so that those organizations which are not used by all students on campus are not paid for by all Eastern students.

Although forensics, the Vehicle and Model United Nations will receive funding from their academic departments instead of the AB next fiscal year, the organizations will still have to present their budgets to the AB for the first year of the new system to make sure "their transition budgets reflect accurately the needs of those activities," the memo to Marvin stated.

Daniels said the AB's budget recommendation for these organizations will then go to Stanley Rives, vice president for academic affairs, who will forward the budget to the appropriate academic department.

University Union Area Head Bill Clark said the funding for these organizations will come from general revenue funds, which are not supported by state tax dollars.

The organizations will not go before the AB for a budget review after the first year, but will instead go to the appropriate department.

The proposal includes a three-year transition plan that will remove a total of seven organizations from the AB by the 1984 fiscal year.

In the fiscal year 1982-83 budget, general music and the Art Board will be eliminated from the activities fee budget and be funded by their academic departments.

WELH and Players will be removed in the fiscal year 1983-84 budget and be funded as the new plan states.

"We're transferring our fiscal responsibilities to the departments on the basis that these organizations under the three-year plan are more educational than recreational and should not be funded under the activities fees," Clark said.

Daniels said the plan also includes a 10 percent annual inflation factor for the organizations' future budgets.

The sub-committee sent to Marvin its 1981-82 recommended allocations for forensics, Model United Nations and the Vehicle. The recommendation represents about a 7 percent increase from their 1980-81 budgets, Daniels said.

The report to Marvin also included exact budget figures for the seven organizations under the funding plan for the next three years.

The plan sent to Marvin suggested a total transfer of funds of $17,962.51 for 1981-82. In his response, Marvin said he did not want the transfer to exceed $17,500.

The $17,962 was derived from a proposed $15,434.10 for Forensics, $1,799.66 for Model U.N. and $728.75 for the Vehicle.

Daniels said he did not know why Marvin set this limit and the AB will not act on the issue until the detail is worked out between Marvin and the AB.

Ill. Supreme Court votes to overturn senate rule

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — A Democratic-controlled Illinois Supreme Court on Monday overturned the Jan. 15 Republican takeover of the powerful state Senate presidency and ordered a new president's election.

The ruling, which came on a 4 to 3 vote along party lines, cleared the way for the majority Democrats to regain the presidency in what has been one of Illinois' most bizarre political fights. Until the court's decision, Illinois had two separate "Senates" — one Democratic and one Republican and each ignoring the other.

The court ordered Republican Gov. James R. Thompson, who led the Jan. 15 GOP coup, to convene the Senate for a new president's election.

Paperwork forces departure delay for American in Iran

American writer Cynthia B. Dwyer's release from Iran was delayed Monday by lack of a travel document, but the State Department said the problem apparently was resolved and said she might leave today.

Mrs. Dwyer was detained at the last minute

Tuesday's (AP) News shorts

Monday by Iranian authorities and the plane that was to carry her to freedom after nine months in prison on espionage charges left without her.

Swiss Ambassador Erik Lang in Tehran described the problem as "lack of a travel document." He said the problem was not serious, "just bad luck. It was lost or disappeared. We hope to find a solution in time for tomorrow. If not, the next day."

Defendant to be bound in chains following knifing

ANOKA, Minn. — A murder defendant who jumped from his courtroom seat and slashed the face of a Baptist missionary as she testified against him will be bound in chains when his trial resumes, authorities said Monday.

Court officials, meanwhile, sought to determine how Ming Sen Shiue, a 30-year-old electronics repairman, obtained the knife he used when heleaped from the defense table in Anoka District Court on Sunday and attacked Mary Stauffer, 37.

Judge Robert Bakke refused to declare a mistrial Monday and ordered psychiatrists to examine Shiue. Mrs. Stauffer, who required 60 stitches, was recovering from the cuts at her home in the St. Paul suburb of Arden Hills.

Third student dies after car plows into party crowd

LINCOLN, Neb.—A third college student has died of injuries suffered when a car driven by a student from Bloomington, Ill. plowed into a group of at least 10 people walking away from a fraternity party, authorities say.

Geri Lynn Foster, 19, of Omaha, a student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, died Sunday at Bryan Memorial Hospital, a hospital supervisor said.

She has been in critical condition with head and chest injuries since the incident early Saturday outside a community center.

Authorities said 20-year-old Peter Phelan and Christopher R. Harries, 21, were dead on arrival at Lincoln Genreal Hospital after the incident. Four Creighton and University of Nebraska-Lincoln students remained hospitalized, one in critical condition.

Conversion plan will not prevent emissions

by Dave Kidwell

The emission's control system currently planned for Eastern's coal conversion project will not prevent sulfur dioxide from being emitted into the atmosphere, Marty Ignazito, assistant director of the physical plant, said Friday.

"We at the physical plant as well as the Environmental Protection Agency feel that the amount of sulfur dioxide that will escape is not enough to cause any immediate problems," Ignazito said.

"I doubt if there is going to be any problem with sulfur emissions," Jerry Heath, director of the health service at Eastern, said Friday. "There will be state environmental agencies keeping tabs on it."

Studies conducted by faculty members at the University of Illinois have indicated that sulfur dioxide emissions could possibly shorten the life expectancy of 50 to 60-year olds, John Thompson, energy chairman of the Students for Environmental Concerns at the U of I, said Monday.

The problem would be especially prevalent if these individuals already had a health problem, Thompson said.

The concern over emissions is not with sulfur dioxide itself, but with the sulfuric acid that could result from the sulfur emission, David Buchanan, professor of chemistry at Eastern, said Monday.

However, he said sulfur dioxide, in what is considered high quantities, could irritate the mucous membranes and lungs.

The amount of sulfur dioxide needed to cause irritation depends on the individual's health, Buchanan said.

"If I had emphysema and was out in my garden on a day when sulfur dioxide emissions were high, I would have great need for concern," he said.

"The real problem is with the formation of 'acid rain' which could harm crops in the surrounding area," Buchanan said.

A recently completed study indicated that legally accepted emissions of sulfur dioxide could result in as much as a 20 percent reduction of soybean yields in the surrounding area, Thompson said.

The EPA standard for sulfur dioxide emissions from an existing plant is six pounds per one million BTU's. This would equal about 132 pounds of sulfur dioxide per ton of coal, Ignazito said.

"It is conceivable, because of the fluctuating sulfur content in coal, that Eastern could emit as much as the standard at times when there is a high content of sulfur in the coal," he said.

There is new technology for removing sulfur dioxide from the emission, Ignazito said. One currently available technique is the use of "scrubbers" to eliminate sulfur dioxide.

"With this method, a wet spray is injected into the gaseous emissions. This spray chemically reacts with the sulfur dioxide to form a solid waste that can be filtered through the baghouse," Ignazito said.

The baghouse is currently Eastern's planned method of emissions control in which the particulate matter would be filtered through a series of bags.

'Greeny' rep Miller appointed to three committees

by Dru Sefton

Although State Representative Steve Miller, R-Catlin, said recently he feels like a "greeny on campus" in his first term; he has been appointed to three committees by the Speaker of the House.

Miller was appointed to the Revenue, Counties and Townships, and Health and Family Services committees.

The Revenue committee, Miller said, has the responsibility of considering tax relief proposals, such as real estate tax relief.

Miller said real estate will be "just about the only tax relief that will pass through the house this term."

Miller said the Counties and Townships committee deals with the structure of county government and dealing with county and township officials and problems in their areas.

Miller said he is not quite sure of the exact responsibilities of the Health and Family Services committee, but said, "I speculate it is concerned with public and mental health, nursing home care and these types of things."

Miller was elected last November in his first bid for the House.

He attributed his success in the election to "a lot of hard work, good preparation, and sound financial backing."

Since then, Miller said the House has not had many days of session, and he still feels as if he is "going off to college for the first time."

"I feel as if I'm still unloading my trunk at school," he said, chuckling.

"It is sort of like being a freshman at college. I sit quietly and wait for someone to ask me something."

But Miller said he is "very pleased" about his three committee appointments.

"Generally, the less seniority a representative has, he receives appointments to less important committees," Miller said.

"I am especially pleased about being chosen to serve on the Revenue committee. I feel this is one of the more important committees," he added.

Miller said this committee is directly related to two of the issues he is especially concerned with, farmland taxation and private farm taxation.

Miller said he has worked his way up in Illinois politics from the precinct level.

Upon graduation from the University of Illinois law school, he was elected to the Indianola village board in 1975, and to the Vermilion County board in 1976.

Miller said he has no long-term plans for his future in politics.

"I am quite satisfied with where I am right now," he said.

Fourth Street requires study

Although Charleston police have claimed the crosswalk between the Lantz parking lot and the Gregg Triad to be safe, we still think the situation calls for investigation.

We call for such action because two accidents involving pedestrians have already occurred at the crosswalk (in December and July 1980). The potential danger of the crosswalk indicates that preventive measures should be taken soon before someone else is injured seriously.

Blame for the unsafe situation cannot be laid solely on drivers or pedestrians. Drivers are at fault for failing to slow down and showing caution when driving through the crosswalk. However, students often fail to use the crosswalk or refuse to pay attention to traffic when they cross Fourth Street.

Tickets for jaywalkers could help encourage students to remain in the crosswalks instead of dashing across the street wherever they please. Installation of stop or yield signs along the route could eliminate motorists from speeding through the area. Just as it has done for the street running through campus near Coleman Hall.

But Charleston police believe the crosswalk is safe and have said that when they make efforts to patrol the area more closely, students who have cars are the first to complain. And, the police say stop and yield signs are not needed at the crosswalk to guard pedestrians.

George Moberly, state traffic engineer, says a stop sign would not be effective for speed control as it is at Fourth and Grant streets.

Moberly's advice to pedestrians concerned about the safety of the crosswalk is to write to the district engineer's office in Paris and request a study of the problem.

We too advocate writing such letters. For only through such a study can it be determined if or how serious the problems at the crosswalk are.

Once the results from the study are complete, necessary steps can be taken to remedy the situation at the Fourth Street crosswalk. But no such changes can be made unless such a study is initiated. Therefore, students and Charleston residents should write to Paris to see that no one else gets hurt along Fourth Street.

Students can learn by being gypped

My father once told me that whenever payday rolled around during his service in the Army, "the vultures" were waiting at the main gate. "The vultures" were the guys trying to sell polka-dotted neck ties at a dime a piece, $1.50 wrist watches and 14-karat gold rings selling for "this time only" at $5.95.

Many a green recruit went into hock because he listened too closely to these panhandlers. It was a baptism of fire which every service man experienced. Running the gauntlet of these exit entrepreneurs without getting fleeced was a learning experience. A lesson which causes veterans in civilian life to question every insurance man or used car salesman.

Eastern students had the opportunity to acquire such enlightenment yesterday when the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant funds were disbursed in the University Union.

Unfortunately, no vultures showed up. There wasn't one shady looking character near the University Union Grand Ballroom. Not a single figure donning a trench coat "flashing" his assortment of wristwatches and kitchen utensils and no ragged hard-luck cases asking for money to pay for their sisters' (or was it their mothers') operation.

What a lost opportunity. Eastern students receiving the BEOG funds could have learned to say "No" repeatedly or how to keep walking through a crowd without stepping on anyone. On the other hand, BEOG recipients might have learned that "all that glitters is not gold" or that ingrown toenail operations do not require specialists.

However, if such individuals would have tried to station themselves at the exits of the Union, the Campus Police

Personal file:

would have been summoned to send them away. That's our university administrators for you. In an effort to protect us from harm they would deny us an important lesson in personal finances.

Next time, the BEOG funds are passed out, there should be a healthy amount of salesmen and confidence men on hand to test the meddle of each student. The University could rope off the mob to make sure they don't block the fire exits and to prevent any stray pickpockets from practicing their craft on BEOG recipients.

Even the local bars could get into the act by offering magnificent specials to high rollers.

The bar offers will read: "By buying a round beers for the house, you can have a reserve booth for one whole year." Of course, the unsuspecting big spenders will fail to read the fine print: "It's your booth, unless someone is already sitting in it."

The day after BEOG disbursement, there will be long lines leading to the financial aids office as students beg for emergency loans to get them through the rest of the month. What a hard lesson in life, but for what knowledge the poor suckers can gain, it's worth the misery.

Next year, when you've just received your BEOG check and hear "Pssst, hey buddy over here." Don't look for a cop, just think of it as a chance to broaden your horizons.

Your Turn

Decide for yourself

Editor:

For several years there has been much controversy concerning the Unification Church and its practice. Especially in Charleston, because of the suit against Will Cooper's parents, there seems to be a special concern about the parent-child relationships surrounding the Church.

I've been in the movement for almost seven years and my parents' attitude is quite different from what the media, to this point, has presented.

When I joined, my father decided to learn more about my involvement by studying our ideology and making a decision on his own. He went to a seminar completely prepared to spot "programing" and "brain washing" techniques. After spending three days studying with us, he returned to his home with a completely different opinion of our church and its activities. Since then, both of my parents have supported me many times in different newspapers and television programs. Also, both are still very strong Methodists and are very active in their church.

If more parents or anyone would simply study the ideology or even visit a church center they could gain a more rational and intelligent understanding of the Unification Church Movement.

AB saves WELH

Editor:

I would like to thank the Apportionment Board for their actions on the evening of Feb. 25, 1981. The AB acted not only to save WELH from closing prematurely this semester, but acted as the agent in the rebirth of radio on this campus. The AB voted to accept a proposal that will essentially create a new medium on Eastern's campus.

WELH will soon be fed into the Liberty Cable system, providing off-campus students with their first opportunity to tune into the station paid for through their student activity fees. Additionally, beginning next fall, when Liberty Cable is available in Eastern's residence halls, WELH will be there as well. No longer will the students have to strain their receivers to pick up WELH, they will be getting a static-free, clear, FM stereo signal.

Finally, the Daily Eastern News will have a worthy competitor in the media on Eastern's campus. WELH and the Daily Eastern News will have the opportunity to watchdog one another's activities as well as provide media majors with important practical experience.

The AB has given new life to WELH, new life that has been needed for a long time. Finally, by reaching a vastly greater audience, WELH may be able to support itself through its own efforts, and release badly needed student fees to other less financially viable activities. We now have a future for WELH.

Forum on referendum issues to be held for students

by Jerry Fallstrom

In an effort to inform students about the issues Eastern students will be voting on Feb. 18, a forum will be held Tuesday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the west side of the University Union Old Ballroom.

Student Senate's Student Awareness Committee Chairman Joel Storm said, "We would like students to know what they are voting on. Last semester there was a lot of confusion about the SCORE proposal and the athletic fee increase, and we want the students to be informed this time."

The executive officers, headed by Student Body President Bob Glover, will discuss such topics as the proposed Textbook Library fee increase and the proposed activity fee increase which will be included in a referendum students will be voting on Feb. 18.

A $20 increase in Textbook Library fees has been proposed to save the rental system at Eastern. Also, a $3.50 activity fee increase will appear on the Feb. 18 ballot.

In addition to the two proposals included on the Feb. 18 referendum, other topics to be discussed include the proposed mass transit system for Eastern and tuition increases, Storm said.

The forum will also provide students information on the functions and responsibilities of student government, Storm said.

After the discussion, there will be a question and answer session, he said.

Storm said he is hoping for a large turnout by offering the forum in the afternoon. Last semester a similar forum held at night had a low turnout, he added.

Storm said he hopes to hold informational forums at the beginning of each semester and possibly at the end of the semesters. The goals of the student senate for the next semester could be outlined in the latter forum, he said.

"This is the first step in getting people more interested in student government," Storm said. "We would like to have students—other than student government members—on committees to provide a wider range of ideas."

Read elected president of local savings and loan

by Veronica Adermann

Harrison Read Jr., Eastern's director of information and publications, was recently elected president of Columbian Savings and Loan Association, 511 Jackson.

Read said he took office immediately after being elected at the association's annual organizational meeting in December.

Despite his election as president of the association, he said he will continue to be director of information and publications here.

Read said current high interest rates are "making it a difficult time" for the association and he added the association will try to help people "despite the high interest rates."

"We will try to stay on top of it all," Read said.

Read is a former editor of what is now the Charleston-Times Courier and previously served as first vice president of Columbia Savings and Loan Association.

Because he served as first vice president of the association, Read said that led to his election as president.

"It was nothing I campaigned for," Read said.

Read said as president of the association he will preside over the Board of Directors, which develops the agency's policies.

Board of Directors members were also elected at the meeting. Among those elected were "Ike's" owner Ivan S. Kennard and Eastern graduate Richard J. Williams.

Kennard was also elected to the office of first vice president.

Williams graduated from Eastern in 1973, and is currently president of Richard Williams Insurance Agency, Inc. of Charleston.

Williams is the newest addition to the association's Board of Directors and was elected to fill a vacancy left by his father, Richard M. Williams, who is now deceased.

Presidents voice opinions on possible new sororities

by Michele Morgan

The possibility of a new sorority coming to Eastern next fall has caused mixed emotions among the already established sororities here.

Recently, Assistant Student Activities Director Ann Cavanagh said her office was interviewing Phi Sigma Sigma, Alpha Sigma Tau and Delta Gamma sororities in the hopes of choosing one that will serve Eastern's needs.

"I feel that it is a very good idea to have another sorority on campus," Apha Phi President Jayne Husker said. "Too many girls weren't able to find a sorority that suited them last fall, I don't feel that a new house will hurt us at all."

Pat Sheehey, Alpha Gamma president, seemed to feel the same way. "We need a new sorority, so many girls didn't follow up with rush because there wasn't enough variety to interest them," she said.

Sigma Sigma Sigma President Leslie Gilmore and Delta Zeta President Kori Kubitz said they were both for the idea of a new sorority to expand the Greek system and get more people involved.

However, Alpha Sigma Alpha President Ceci Ryan said, "I feel that it is better if we don't have a new sorority. The reason why so many girls didn't follow up with rush is because they had no second option."

"I think that our rush regulations need to be revised and that we should concentrate on placing as many girls as possible in the sororities already on campus," she said.

Ryan said she also felt it would hurt her sorority if Alpha Sigma Tau is chosen to be the sorority to be established here. She said both sororities are known as Alpha Sigs, and she felt this would cause confusion during rush.

Phyllis Latimer, Kappa Delta president, said she felt there is no need for a new house until all of the present houses are up to quota. Each sorority has a quota established for the maximum number of women it can accommodate.

Panthers win indoor contest

by Holly Headland

Following a goal in the last 10 seconds of play by Gordie Weidle, Eastern's top indoor soccer team, the EIU team, won the indoor soccer tournament Sunday 1-0 over the University of Wisconsin at Lantz Fieldhouse.

"Both of our teams played really well," Eastern coach Schellas Hyndman said. "The number one team of the day won the tournament, but the Panthers, the number two team, played well too. They were just cut out in the semi-finals."

Eastern's leading scorer in the 12-team tournament was Silvano Corrazza who left the days action with four goals to his credit. Corrazza played for Eastern's B team, the Panthers.

George Hough was the leading scorer for the EIU team, racking up three points for the day.

Hough's final goal was the one that put the EIU team into its final match.

EIU was facing Lewis and Clark Junior College on a wild card bid in the semifinal match when the game finished regulation time with both teams scoreless.

Hough scored the only goal of the game in sudden-death overtime to leave the EIU team victorious 1-0.

Netters take fourth in own tournament

by Jill Anderson

Although Eastern coach Karen Earley said she felt the Panthers "closed the gap" between its competition, the Eastern badminton team finished fourth in the Eastern Illinois Invitational last weekend at McAfee Gym.

"I was pleased with the weekend and I felt as if we're closing the gap between the other state schools as the season progresses," Earley said.

Southern Illinois dominated the tournament with 92 points, followed by Northern Illinois with 76, Illinois State with 73 and Eastern with 72 points.

Rounding out the field were Western Illinois, Ball State, Carthage College and Blackburn College.

"I was surprised with Southern's domination since the top four teams usually finish with closer scores," Earley said.

In singles play, Janet Haberkorn was edged out in the quarterfinals of A Flight by Jackie Curtiss of Western 11-0, 5-11, 11-3, while Sue Gonnella was defeated by top seeded Nancy Little of Southern in the quarters 11-0, 11-1.

Grabbing the only title in the tournament for Eastern, Denise Hadley won the A Flight consolation defeating Nancy Webber of ISU in the finals.

In B Division, Chris Kelley and Jo Obrycki were defeated by Margo Michalski of ISU in the semifinals and quarterfinals respectively, while Nancy Szarzynski fell in the first round to Ball State.

Jody Lyon, competing in C Flight reached the finals where she was forced to default at 11-3, 10-8 in the match due to a knee injury.

Earley said Lyon will be out for at least two weeks and said her absence will definitely hurt the team's depth.

In doubles action, the Panthers did not break past the quarterfinals.

Jock snaps over Valentine gift.

Dear Ann:

Athletically I'm an All-American. Romantically I'm a nerd. I'm in love with a fox. But the competition is rough. What'll I give her for Valentine's Day?

Nervously Yours,
Chicken Hunk

Dear Chicken:

Don't punt. Send her flowers. It's probably the best play you ever made. And the easiest. Just go to your nearest FTD Florist. He has the perfect Valentine gift. A beautiful bouquet that comes in a special bud vase. Even better, you can afford it. Remember, when in doubt, rely on the magic of flowers. It's the only way a chicken can catch a fox.

Good hunting.

Helping you say it right.

The FTD Valentine Bud Vase is usually available for less than $10.00. As an independent businessman, each FTD Florist sets his own prices. Service charges and delivery may be additional. ©1981 Florists Transworld Delivery.

Motivation proves as beneficial in 78-50 win

by Dave Claypool

Self-motivation is the best means of success and Eastern's women's basketball team is the proof.

Rallying behind the motivation of goals set by the team members, the Panthers completely stymied Bradley 78-50 Monday night at Lantz Gym.

"The girls have set goals for themselves and I really have nothing to do with it," Eastern head coach Bobbie Hilke said. "In fact, I'm really not sure what they are, but they are sure causing the girls to play awfully well."

"All I know is that they are sure playing well and I can think of no better motivator than oneself," the Coach added.

And that they are, because after jumping out to a 37-25 halftime lead, Eastern rattled off 10 unanswered points to open up the second-half and cruise to the win.

"I do know that one of the goals of the team has been to try and stop the other team from shooting before the 30-second shot clock," Hilke said. "They did that tonight and it really got things going for them in the second-half."

And though Joann Archer was in typical form with her game-high 22 points, including her 1,000th career point attained with her 15th point just before her 15th point, Hilke was not about to point out any particular individual effort.

"It was an all out team effort," Hilke said. "We played exceptional defense and the enthusiasm really carried us through."

But though Hilke was reluctant to point out anyone in particular, there were, of course some fine performances put in.

Supporting Archer's 22 points were Linda Ellesworth with 18 points and Nancy Kassebaum's 16.

And as the entire game went for the Panthers, Hilke's recently added three-guard offense worked to perfection.

Using guards Sandy Thorpe, Jodi Corson and Kassebaum, Eastern's defense and offensive quickness was almost untolerable for Bradley.

"I really like the way the three-guard offense is working," Hilke said. "We are getting many more fast breaks than before and we can really take advantage of Jodi's (Corson) defensive abilities."

While Eastern's defense was superb for the night, it could not quite stop Bradley's Connie Griffith.

In a 20-point performance, Griffith muscled her way to keep the final score respectable for the Braves.

Percentage shooting from the floor saw Eastern shoot a respectable 42 percent, while Bradley could only hit for 38 percent.

Free throw shooting was almost the same as Eastern connected on 11 of 14 for a 79 percent clip, while the Braves hit just 10 of 15 from the-line for 67 percent.

Eastern Lanter 2-0-4, Thorpe 1-0-2, Corson 0-0-0, Kassebaum 8-0-16, Archer 9-4-22, Ellesworth 6-6-18, DePesa 0-0-0, Morel 0-0-0, Edwards 2-0-4, Berg 0-0-0, Moore 1-0-2, Thompson 0-1-1, Waldrup 4-0-8.

Eastern's Joann Archer puts up two of her game-high 22 points during Eastern's 78-50 triumph over Bradley Monday night. Archer became only the second player in Eastern history to score more than 1,000 points in a career Monday night with her 15th point. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

Players praise coach for recent successes

by Steve Binder

Injuries and games lost at the final buzzer have been major obstacles Eastern's basketball team has had to overcome during the entire season.

Warren Patten, Chuck Turk, Jim Williams, Vincent Smelter and Eddie Jones all have sustained injuries which have sidelined them from playing at different times during the season.

Patten and Smelter will not return the rest of the season. Turk's, return is still indefinite.

Williams has been seeing action the last three games, but has yet to reach his full potential, while Jones has returned and has started the last three games.

Because of these injuries, Eastern has been playing different people in different positions. Normally a forward, 6-foot-6 Ricky Robinson has been shuffled to a guard spot, while Jones has been playing a small forward.

The Panthers, now 12-9, have dropped five games by a total of nine points.

And with the abundance of barriers the Panthers have run-up against this season, Eastern has always managed to overcome the obstacles and recently has established a three-game winning streak which includes victories over No. 2 ranked Wright State, highly touted Northern Michigan and St. Joseph's College.

Very simply expressed, the Panthers have exploded to success.

Members of the Panthers believe there are a combination of reasons responsible for their recent success, and they cited the most important factor as being their skipper, head coach Rick Samuels.

"Every good team has to have a nucleus, and coach Samuels has been our nucleus. He has kept us together throughout the season," forward Ricky Serkin said.

"He made us believe that if we continue to work hard then eventually good things will happen," he added.

Serkin and other team members believe that Samuels has been the most significant factor in the Panthers' success because he has possessed and emitted the attitude of never to give up.

"He's been the main factor as far as making us believe never to give up. He's has been staying with us so we'll do our darndest for him," Rico Ellis said.

"It's been hard on him and he has been patient and has showed composure and he hasn't given up on us," Robinson said.

"He has drilled it into our heads not to give up. He set the example by never giving up on us," Serkin added.

"I feel coach Samuels could of just given up. But he put it in our minds never to give up. We stuck by him just like he stuck by us and now it's paying off," Jones said.

"No matter what has happened to us, coach Samuels has always put a competitive team on the court," he added.

Another factor the players feel responsible for their recent hot streak is the fact that they have been playing in the friendly confines of Lantz Gym.

Since the Panthers returned from a five week Christmas-break road trip, Eastern has lost just one of seven contests at home, the defeat against Southwest Missouri 69-68.

"Since we've been home we've been playing well. The fans play a major part in the game. On the road we have a tendency to get frustrated and turn over the ball and I don't see any reason why that doesn't happen to teams when they come here (Lantz Gym)," Robinson said.

"The fan support has been terrific. There's always an added advantage when you play at home," Jones said.

Jones feels another reason for Eastern's success is that everybody is beginning to recognize each players' responsibilities which has resulted in the squad playing more as a unit.

"Everybody's just understanding each others' role now. Plus now we're coming into the games mentally prepared. A lot of the games we lost we just didn't come ready to play," Jones said.

And Ellis feels that having found the right combination of players is another significant reason for the Panthers' recent play.

"I think it's just the combination we have right now. Everybody has a winning attitude and we just won't give up," Ellis said.

Whatever reasons exist for their success, the Panthers have shown that they are a team that can overcome the obstacles and barriers which can cause a disastrous season.

"Right now we're just trying to put it together and go out and give 100 percent," Jones said.

"The way we're playing now is the way we're capable of playing," Ellis added.

"It's almost like a cinderella story," Serkin said.
